DEDICATION

Arthur Valotto

The Students of Falls Church High School proudly dedicate the 1960 JAGUAR to Mr. Arthur Valotto.

For us he has been an inspiring teacher, a sympathetic guidance counselor, a great coach, an efficient Athletic Director.

Most of all he has been a friend who understood.

TELESCOPE

of telescope is known as a REFLECTOR. Newton invented using a diagonal mirror to bring the reflected light to an eyepiece at the front tube. Since then this system has been used on small telescopes.

is a diagram of my instrument works. The light enters the front and continues to the back where it hits the mirror. The mirror is the most important part. It is 4 1/2 inches in diameter and concave. The first surface is optically correct to within 1/4 wave. The second surface of the mirror reflects the light into a diagonal mirror. This is the focal length of the telescope. The focal length is 45 inches. The mirror is a small first surface. When the smaller cone of light comes, it is reflected, still at a right angle to the tube, and the focusing tube holder and the eyepiece are moved here at the point of the focus from the center of the mirror.

the focusing tube is the home of the eyepiece. Ramsden eyepieces of the main mirror and the eyepiece must be exactly to have proper registration. This is produced only by the Ramsden design. Ramsden gives 30x which is plenty for general viewing.

is a diagram of my eyepiece. The two equal plano-convex lenses are mounted 17 mm apart in the convex parts facing each other. The Ramsden is subject to chromatic aberrations, but the effect on viewing is negligible.

REFLECTING TELESCOPE

CONSTRUCTION

In building my telescope I purchased a 4 1/2 inch diameter mirror from Edmund Scientific Co. I also purchased two lenses for an eyepiece, and a cardboard tube to serve as the main tube of the telescope.

First, I made a mirror mount which provides firm but adjustable suspension for the main mirror.

Next, I mounted the eyepiece holder out of plastic. When the time had set, I removed the mount and drilled holes for screws and for the diagonal mirror holder. A hole running at right angles to that for the mirror holder was tapped for a 1/4 inch screw which serves to hold the diagonal mirror in place.

Following this, I made the cradle to hold the eyepiece tube and fastened the tube on with aluminum bands.

The last major component of the telescope, the eyepiece, was made next out of two plano-convex lenses, spaced by two inside rolls of paper tape. It was mounted in another large roll of tape.

A rectangle of window screening painted black was inserted in a roll into the main tube. This provides a rough inside surface which absorbs most of the unwanted light.

The entire telescope was assembled and bolted to the end of the declination shaft of the equatorial mount.

The mount was made of heavy lumber to provide a vibrationless base. The joints were welded by the R & B Welding Co. and the mount was assembled.

THE TELESCOPE AND MOUNT WERE MADE BY THE EXHIBITOR IN HIS HOME SHOP

THE EQUATORIAL

The mount which I have built for my telescope is of the equatorial type. The type of mount is very advantageous for astronomical photography.

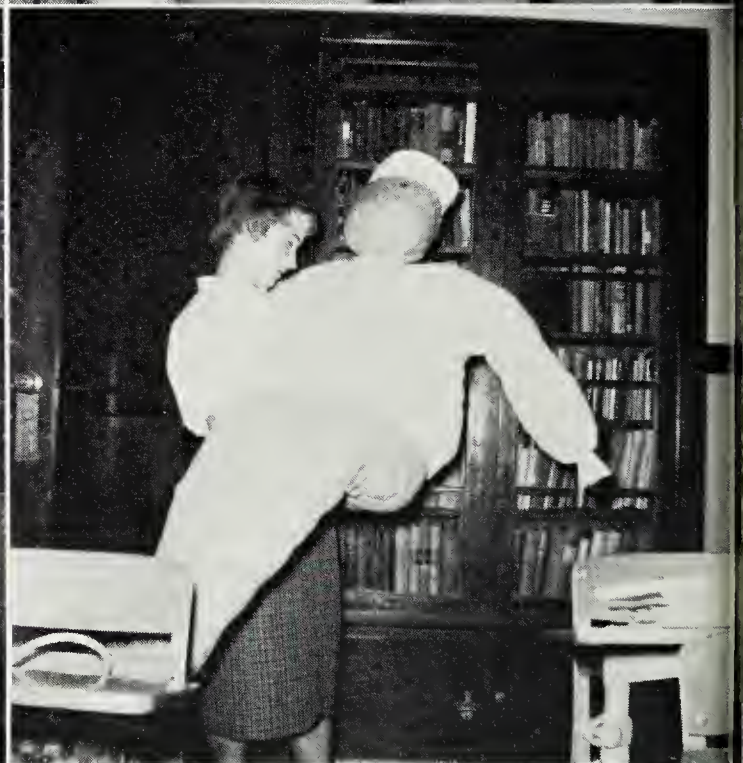

This is a diagram of my equatorial mount. It is made to be almost vibration free. It is an eight inch telescope. The declination axis of the equatorial mount are the declination axes. The polar axis is the sloping part of the base of 36.5°. The same as the declination axis. This axis is easily rotated or tilted. The telescope is bolted to the declination axis. The movable lead counter balance.

In use, the celestial object is brought to the declination axis. The declination axis is rotated to the North or South.

of the type of mount gives a clock drive mechanism. My mount is adding a clock drive.

Forensics

The debating team again led our forensics this year. Our varsity team composed of Dave Hudson, Glenn Miller, Joe De Pierre, and George Bagby had a very successful season. They tied for first place in the College of William and Mary high school invitational tournament and tied for second in George Washington University Tri-State Invitational Tournament. At this printing our Varsity Debaters were tied for first in Northern Virginia and were preparing for the State Tournament and the University of Richmond Invitational.

The School winners in other divisions were: Prose, Charles Westerman and Sandy Loughton; Poetry, Steve Masters and Nancy Derrickson; Public Speaking, Robin Bidwell and Vici Short; Spelling, Tim Ablett.

Homecoming Court

Homecoming Weekend was bigger and better than ever this year; we had floats, a beautiful court and a good game. After many hours of preparation our floats were ready for the court to board them for the parade through Falls Church. We were all thrilled to see the court enter at half time and see Mr. Jordan present Miss Anne Stepler with a gold football.

The dance was lovely and truly a gala affair. Our radiant Queen Anne reigning over the dance with her escort, Mr. Buddy Godfrey '58 made it a memorable affair for everyone.

Sweetheart Court

Edged in between snowstorms, the Sweetheart Dance was held February 19, 1960, after a one week postponement. Miss Amy Arnow, Queen, and Miss Anne Fiellin, Maid of Honor, plus an array of beautiful girls, reigned over the festivities of the evening.

The Prom held on June 3rd at the Willard was a gala and spectacular affair. Our beautiful court headed by the dazzling Queen, Miss Debbie Stahl, will always be remembered. It was the highlight of the year and the memory of it will truly last.

The Story Behind the Book

At last behind us is the picture taking, the picture retaking, the mark-ups, the picture naming, the lay-outs, the picture retakes and the copy writing. The JAGUAR '60 has gone to Press!

It seemed hopeless at times but we finally did it. We can't tell you how, because we don't even know ourselves.

Dreams have been compiled, modified and finally put into print. The work is complete, and another "JAGUAR" has become a reality.

"Yearbook deadline was when?"

What a revoltin' development!

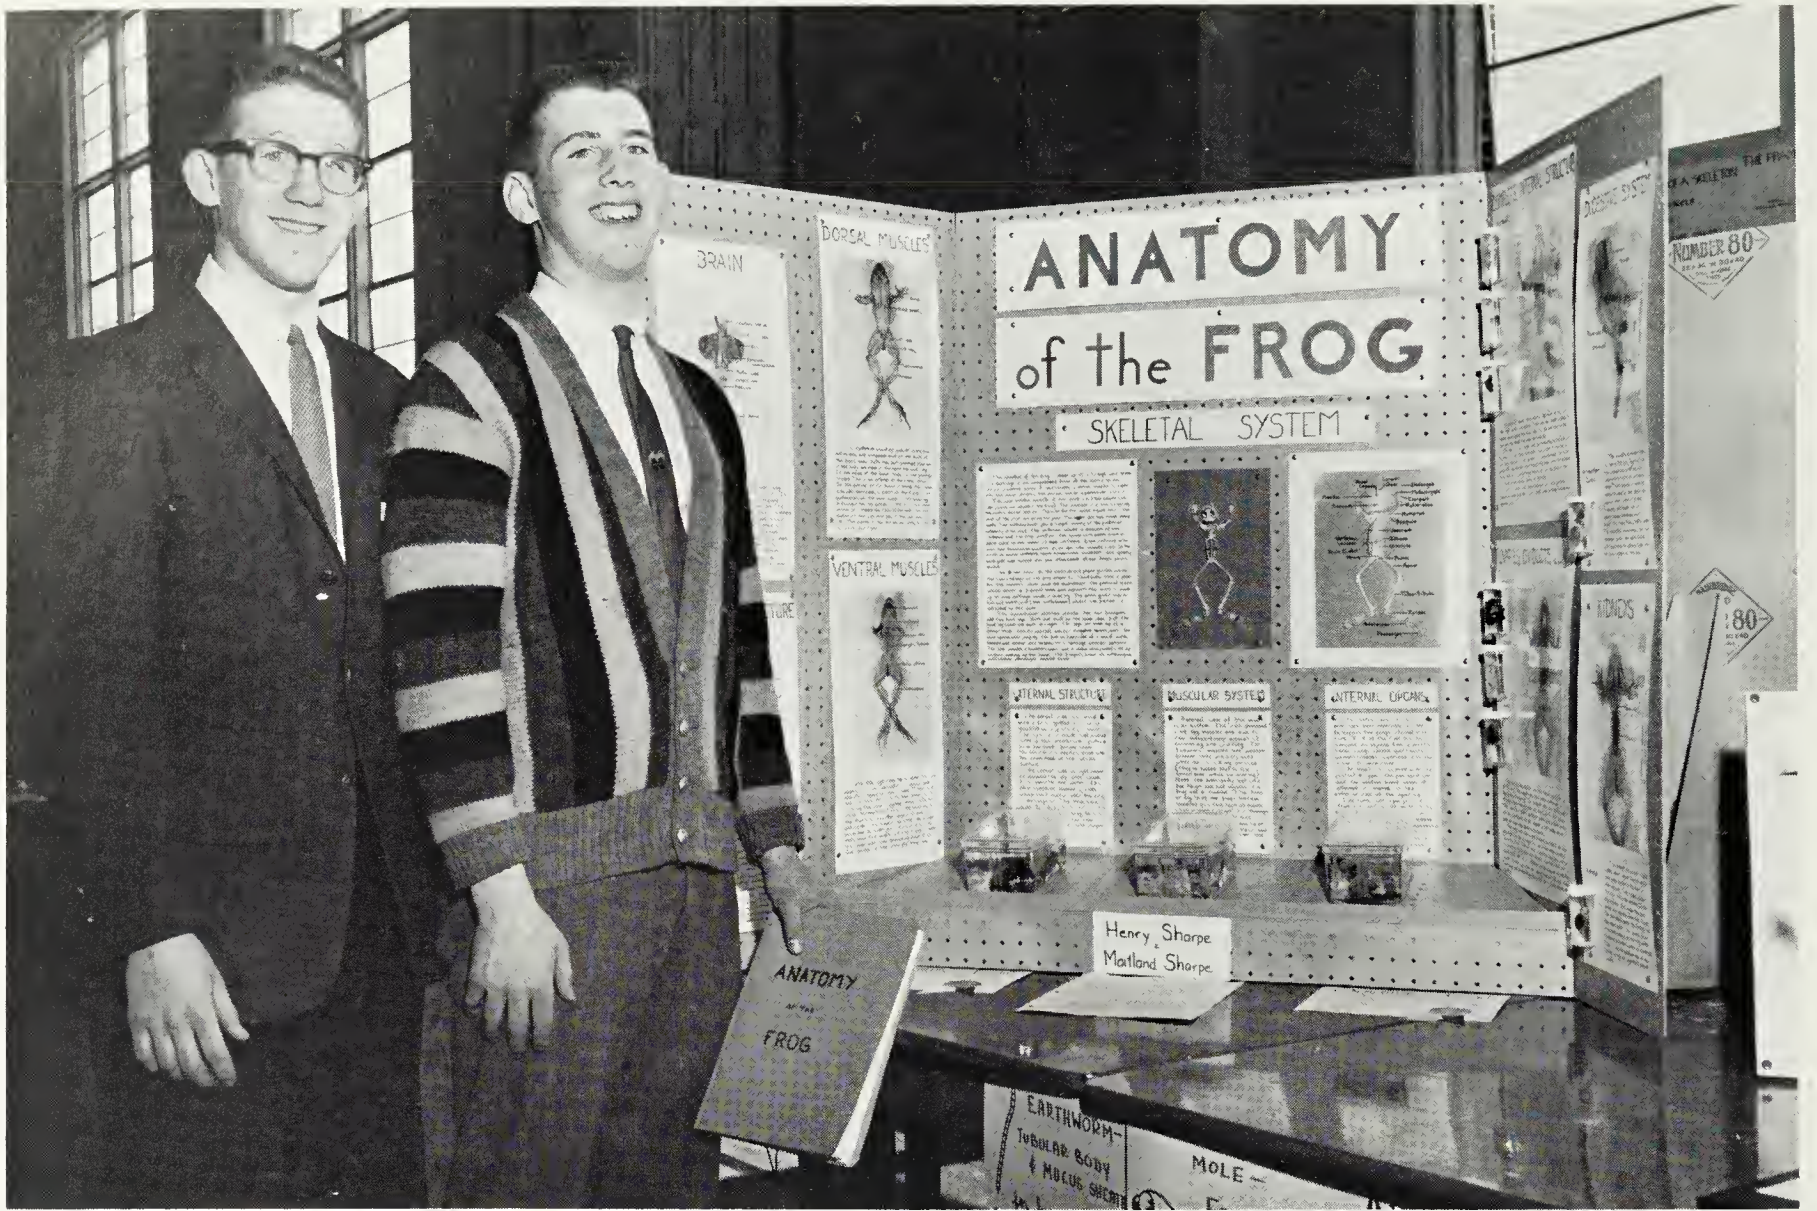

"What's so interesting in the '58 yearbook?"

Togetherness on our staff.

Publications do that to you!
